

guy

(noun) a rope that at one end is connected to a tent or pole and at the other end is fastened to the ground by a peg, keeping the tent or pole in position intimate

(adj) (of knowledge or understanding) detailed, and obtained from a lot of studying or experience; being a close, personal friend.

Usage:

- She has an intimate knowledge of Tuscany, where she has lived for 20 years.
- an intimate friend

(verb) to make clear what you think or want without saying it directly

Usage:

She has intimated that she will resign if she loses the vote.

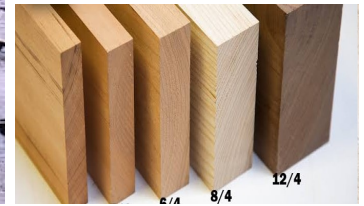

list

(verb) (esp. of a ship) to tilt or lean to one side

Usage: The tanker is listing badly and may sink.

lumber

(verb) to move slowly and awkwardly

Usage: In the distance, we could see a herd of elephants lumbering across the plain.

(noun) wood that has been prepared for building

pluck

(noun) courage, spunk, fortitude;
courage and a strong wish to succeed

Usage: She showed a lot of pluck in standing up to her boss.

milk

(verb) to get as much money or information from someone or something as possible or as much advantage from a situation as possible

Usage: If the press hear about this, they will milk the story for weeks.

mince

(verb) to cut food into very small pieces;

to walk with small, delicate steps, in a way that does not look natural

Usage: He minced across the room in a pair of tight pink trousers.

nice

(adj.) based on very slight differences

Usage: I wasn't convinced by his nice distinction between a lie and an untruth.

(adj.) giving pleasure or satisfaction; pleasant or attractive.

Usage: It was a nice trip.

occult

Occult:

"Kept secret, esoteric, recondite, mysterious, beyond the range of ordinary knowledge, involving the supernatural, mystical, magical."

(adj.) mystical, supernatural, or magical powers, practices, or phenomena.

pedestrian

(noun) a person who is walking, especially in an area where vehicles go

Usage: A few pedestrians sheltered from the rain in doorways.

(adj.) not interesting; showing very little imagination

Usage: His speech was long and pedestrian.

pied

(adj.) multicolored, usually in blotches

wag

(noun) a humorous person who likes to make jokes
